Soccer is a physical sport where injury, though regrettable, is sometimes unavoidable. The club also understands that in club of our size players may contract serious illness. With this in mind the club financial policy is as follows:

“Injury” or “illness”, for these purposes, is defined to include physical maladies causing a player to be unable to play or practice for a minimum of two months.

The club shall act according to all rules and regulations of Cal South and its affiliated leagues fulfilling requirements for reporting injuries to the appropriate agency. A copy of the injury report should also be submitted to the Board. In the case of severe illness, the manager shall also submit a brief report to the Board.

Should it be found that a player is unable to return for the remainder of the seasonal year, a player release shall be initiated and appropriate refund issued according to the refund policy.

Should a player be out for 90 days or more, financial consideration will be made as follows:
